UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Patent and Trademark Office
ASSISTANT SECRETARY AND COMMISSIONER OF PATENTS AND TRADEMARKS
Washington, D.C. 20231

Paper No:20080214

Application No:10/560259

Filing Date: December 9,2005

1. The drawings are objected to because the blank rectangular boxes and/or merely numbered boxes of figures 1-5 must be labeled. Conventional features disclosed in the description and claims, where their detailed illustration is not essential for a proper understanding of the invention, should be illustrated in the form of a graphical drawing symbol or a labeled representation (e.g., a labeled rectangular box). see 37 CFR 1.83(a). It is further pointed out that merely numbering the boxes is not considered an appropriate label. Structural elements which can be understood by conventional graphical drawing elements are not required to be labeled. Electronic elements enclosed in a "black box" require consulting the text of the specification and thus require labeling. If the box is too small to label, an appropriate label with an arrow pointing towards the box is acceptable. Correction is required.
2. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 9 does not appear to be dependent upon claim 1, as stated.

Art Unit: 2837

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1,11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kobayashi et al (6247557).

Kobayashi et al teaches in figures 1-30, an elevator apparatus which moves a car 4 in a hoistway by way of traction motors 1A,1B, deflection sheaves 8ha,8hb,8hb,8ib, ropes 7 and counterweight 6. As illustrated in the drawing figures, the traction motors are placed between the car and hoistway wall and on the guide rails 9a,b (not above the car). One or two motors and associated deflection sheaves can be utilized as well as the orientation of the counterweight which may further be shared.

As further illustrated, the traction sheaves and deflection sheaves may be in parallel or perpendicular.

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 2-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kobayashi et al and Yasuda et al (5488124).

7. Kobayashi et al does not illustrate the placement of the drive system on a base connected to the guide rails

8. Yasuda et al (6488124). Yasuda et al teaches in figures 1-47, an elevator drive unit system.

To eliminate the need for a machine room in an elevator hoistway and enhance the stability, Yasuda et al states that the mounting base would be advantageous.

Yasuda et al teaches several embodiments of both drive sheave, deflection sheave, car and counterweight placement.

Art Unit: 2837

As illustrated in the drawing figures, the drive unit 107,207 can be placed on connecting beams 106 on guide rails 104,204 in either direction in reference to the car. Deflection sheaves 226,227,224 can also be utilized. Figures 39-45 illustrate several other mounting base units and orientations.

Thus, to utilize a mounting base to enhance stability for a machine room-less elevator, would have been an obvious engineering design choice to one of ordinary skill in the art.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Hakala et al is cited to illustrate a similar elevator machine mounting system.

A shortened statutory period for response to this action is set to expire 3 months from the date of this letter.

Failure to respond within the period for response will cause the application to become abandoned. 35 U.S.C. 133
